PARIS AWAITS FRENCH FLIERS AND STOWAWAY

HOP LATE TODAY

Anger Toward Youthful
Arthur Schreiber
Evaporates.

By Harold Ballou,
International News Service
Staff Correspondent.

SANTANDER, Spain, June 15.—Jean Assolant, Rene Le-feyre and Armento Lotti, Jr., French trans-Atlantic fliers who have the distinction of bringing the first stowaway across the ocean in an airplane, prepared to hop off late today for Le Bourget field, Paris, their original goal.

Motor to Santander.
The airmen motored here from Comillas, their landing place, arriving at 9:30 o'clock this morning. After visiting the civil governor and municipal officers they toured the city. They returned to Comillas at noon to await the installation of spare mechanical parts which were ordered from the Gamonard airfield. Assolant said he did not know the hour of departure, but hoped to get away later in the day.

The anger that Assolant and his companions felt when they discovered the youthful stowaway—Arthur Schreiber, of Portland, Me.—had evaporated today. It was understood that Schreiber would accompany the "Yellow Bird" to Le Bourget field—as a welcome passenger.

Felt Like Tossing Youth Overboard.
Revealing that he "felt like throwing him overboard into the Atlantic ocean," Assolant, told International News Service today of the circumstances surrounding the discovery of Schreiber, 20 minutes after the plane had hoped off from Old Orchard, Maine, Thursday morning.

Schreiber, who leaped from the obscurity of a prosaic life in Portland, Maine, to world-wide notoriety by his venturesome feat, arrived safely when the "Yellow Bird" made a forced landing at Comillas, near here, last night.

Assolant told of the sensational dis-

Flying to Paris.
Dream Again, Ladies.
Worse Than Whisky.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE,

THE huge French monoplane "Yellow Bird" is on her way to Paris with three plucky young Frenchmen in charge, after landing at Santander, Spain.

They failed to duplicate Lindbergh's feat.

He flew alone, and without stopping, from New York to Paris.

That will be done before long as a regular part of commercial flying. But nobody, ever again, will do it for the first time.

YOUNG ladies may resume their dreams. A "high court official" says the Prince of Wales isn't engaged to Princess Ingrid of Sweden, and the rumor is "vexatious to English royalty."

NEW YORK newspapers have printed pages about "The Torch Murderer." It was a crime unusually vile and cruel, the murderer setting fire to a woman to get rid of her.

CRIME ceases to be news in these crime days. But you observe with some interest that whereas in the average killing, police find empty gin bottles; in this atrocious crime they find little vials that contained morphine pills.

In all their results, drugs are worse than whisky.

MOONEY, in the modern game of usuary, goes up and down in value like cotton, wheat and sugar. It was comparatively cheap Thursday, in Wall Street only 7 per cent.

Stocks were cheerful in consequence. "Big Steel," General Electric and some others began climbing upward.

The poor bears are still waiting for the "collapse" that is to enrich them.

IF OUR famous Federal Reserve had

BAR CHIEFTAIN HITS BANKS IN LAW PRACTICE

John Cline, Cleveland,
And Others Speak at Country Club.

Incidents which are being made into the practice of law by corporations, trust companies and agencies not authorized to do so was condemned by President John A. Elden, Cleveland president of the Ohio State Bar association, and John Cline, also of Cleveland, at a dinner of the Columbiana County Bar association in the East Liverpool Country Club last night.

Approximately 75 attorneys, including delegations from Mahoning, Stark and Jefferson counties, O., and Beaver county, Pa., attended. Ben L. Bennett was toastmaster.

Three solos, "Rose Marie," "Broadway Melody" and "On the Road to Mandalay" were sung by Attorney Blaine H. Cochran with Mrs. Danks Cochran as accompanist. Music was in charge of the Cochran orchestra.

J. H. Brookes Welcomes Guests.
Attorney J. H. Brookes, president of the county association, welcomed the visiting attorneys. In his introductory remarks he enumerated prominent attorneys, who at one time had lived "in the hills of Columbiana county."

Cline, a former prosecuting attorney of Cuyahoga county, paid a high tribute to the legal ability of President Brookes and also complimented the country for "furnishing Ohio" with a man whom the attorneys had seen fit to elect president of the state bar.

He also discussed the movement on the part of the state bar to have the supreme court adopt a set of rules to govern lawyers. So-called "ambulance chasers" and "unethical attorneys who serve to bring the legal profession into disrepute" were condemned by the speaker.

Cites Menace to Profession.
"The lawyers have been more faithful to their trust than any other profession, despite the many statements to the contrary," said Cline. He accented the practice of attorneys in soliciting business.

SENATE HEARING

Newell Manufacturer
Named Spokesman
For Delegation.

Representatives of the United States Pottery association, joined by importers of English and French ware, will appear before the senate finance committee at Washington probably next Wednesday to urge the adoption of a higher protective tariff than proposed by the Hawley-Smoot bill which has been passed by the house.

Hearings will be opened by the finance committee probably Monday, local manufacturers have been advised. If a basis of valuation is fixed, hearings on Schedule No. 2, including ceramic products, will be reached on the third day.

W. E. Wells, of Newell, secretary-treasurer and general manager of the Homer Laughlin China company and a recognized tariff expert, will head the manufacturers' delegation. Wells, who will be spokesman, will be accompanied by Malcolm W. Thompson of the Hall China company and president of the United States Pottery association; Charles Sebring of the Leigh Pottery, Inc., of Alliance; B. E. Salisbury of the Onondaga Pottery company, Syracuse, N. Y.; George C. Mitchell of the Pope-Gossier China company, Coshocton, and possibly two importers.

At a hearing before the ways and means committee in Washington in January, representatives of the ceramic industry asked retention of the present ad valorem duties plus an additional 25 cents a dozen on china and semi-porcelain. In the original draft of the Hawley-Smoot measure the requested increase was slashed from 25 cents to 10 cents a dozen. The present ad valorem rates of 45 per cent on white ware and 50 per cent on decorated ware in the semi-porcelain classification and 60 per cent on white and 70 per cent on decorated in the chinaware classification were unchanged in the measure enacted by the house.

West Virginia Lad Choked;
Head Held Under Water.

MURDER CHARGED

Two Brothers and Their Parents are Arrested.

WELCH, W. Va., June 15.—(INS)—A 9-year-old orphan boy, whom two playmates allegedly choked and then held his head under the waters of Dry Fork creek, is dead today and the mother and father, with the two alleged juvenile perpetrators of the crime, are in jail here awaiting the action of the grand jury.

The dead orphan is Raymond Colley.

According to the story told to police, Hobart and Cornell Hamilton, aged 10 and 9, respectively, went swimming with the Colley boy.

Raymond, the boys declared, tried to "duck" us and "hold our heads under the water." Then, according to the two small brothers, they grabbed hold of Raymond, choked him and then held his head under the water.

A murder warrant was filed by W. J. Farley, county juvenile officer.

Hobart and Cornell were immediately arrested and were placed in jail here. The father and mother of the two, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hamilton, were also arrested as accessories of the fact, inasmuch as they are alleged to have told their sons to keep quiet after Hobart and Cornell sobbed out the story of Raymond's death to their parents.

An autopsy by Doctor D. G. Camper, coroner, disclosed there was no water in Raymond's lungs or stomach, which indicated the orphan boy had been choked to death, before his head was held under the water.

Caroling with the Early Birds

A Scene from Not Quite Decent, Fox Picture

Based on a story "The Grouch Bag," perhaps one of the most human stories with a stage background yet to reach the screen, the production has a tremendously powerful climax. Louise Dresser as Mame Jarrow, to save her own daughter's from a philanderer, in the presence of scores of people in a speakeasy feigns drunkenness, accuses the man of having defaced her, as well as others, and succeeds in disilluioning the girl with the man.

At the Ceramic theater, three days, starting Monday.

A Sweeping Success

because it offers Big Car Qualities for only $745

The New Pontiac Big Six is a sweeping success—an even more pronounced success than its famous predecessors. And it owes its success largely to the fact that it offers big car qualities at low prices. Oakland produced this car to enable progressive people to step up in motor car quality without leaving the low-priced field. And the very people for whom it was created have made it an impressive sales success.

Pontiac Big Six, $745 to $895, f. o. b. Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charges. Bumpers, spring covers and Lovejoy shock absorbers regular equipment at slight extra cost. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing automobile values. . . . Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices include only reasonable charges for handling and for financing when the Time Payment Plan is used.

"HUMAN TORCH" DEFIES DEATH

Daredevil Opens Week's Engagement at Rock Springs.

Daring death in a stunt which killed his wife two years ago, Captain Patrick "Smiles" O'Timmons, known as the "human torch," will open a week's engagement at Rock Springs park at 10:30 o'clock tonight when he dives from a 100-foot ladder into a five-foot tank of water.

O'Timmons is a son of the famous Pat O'Timmons of circus fame. The daredevil, 20 years of age, with only one arm and one leg, will perch blindfolded at the top of the ladder, touch a match to his gasoline-soaked clothing, and hop in a double backward flip into the tank of water.

The ladder and tank which O'Timmons will use in his act were placed in position at the park yesterday. His act will be given again on Sunday afternoon and night and every night next week.

The annual Panhandle division railroad company picnic is being held at the park today. Five excursion trains of 50 coaches brought the railroaders and members of their families to the park for the day.

Crystal pool, the park's bathing center, is now open. The bath house has been rebuilt and seating accommodations for several hundred persons provided at the north end of the pool.

MATTRESS IS COOL

HOT summer nights are coming. Sweltering days followed by torrid, breathless nights. Sleep will be hard to get on ordinary type mattresses.

Think of the tremendous advantage of the Simmons Beautyrest mattress on such nights.

Its centre is an open core of responsive coils. All around them air is circulating. Vents keep this air constantly changing.

The Beautyrest is more comfortable on any night... but in the summer it is degrees cooler, too.

OPERATING ECONOMY

AND REMARKABLY LOW PRICE MAKE WHIPPET EASY ON YOUR POCKETBOOK!

THE new Superior Whippet Four carries on the original Whippet's unsurpassed reputation for low operating and service costs. Though its higher compression engine develops more than 20% added horsepower, with faster speed and pick-up, there is no increase in Whippet's consumption of gas and oil.

And the new Superior Whippet Six is even more economical than its predecessor.

Its increase in compression ratio assures more value from gas used, and more miles per gallon.

Then consider the remarkably low prices of both the Whippet Four and the Whippet Six, and you realize why thousands of new owners are appreciating that in buying motor car value, their dollar goes further today than ever before.

Aftermath of Carnival

Columbian park, once a beauty spot in the eastern section of the city and still used as an athletic field,
presents a picture not unlike the ruins left in the path
of a tornado, as an aftermath of a recent carnival.
Tin cans, waste paper, candy boxes and other refuse,
presumably discarded by patrons or employees of the carnival, cover no small part of the acreage which,
fronts on Pennsylvania avenue, the main highway between Ohio and the Keystone state.
Passengers on interurban cars, which pass the location at half-hour intervals, and hundreds of motorists,
many of them strangers, have suggested that the place
has been converted into a public dump, so unsightly is its appearance.
There is no criticism of the owners or lessees of the park, for, according to reports, they charged no rental for the use of the park during the week's engagement of the carnival. However, in the rush of leaving the city,
the exposition owners gave no thought to the condition of the show grounds. Necessarily, the clean up job must fall to the lot of others.
Civic pride should prompt action on the part of the municipality, if necessary, to clean up the East End park.

Why the People Doubt

Admiration can be so sincere that faults are obliterated under their flattering rays. That is the reason people can continue to be optimistic even though deep
study would reveal such a host of flaws that faith
would be shattered.
Americans are proud of their government. They do not like to make excuses for it so soon after millions of men have given their lives to convert the entire world
to a similar faith. Starting with the home, the average American would like to boast, "My home is the best
on the street, my street is the best in the city, my city
the best in the state" and so on up to the peak of "my government is the best in the world." Such attitudes start trouble, but they are also the basis of progress.
The government of the United States has stood for more than 150 years. It has administered law to the most prosperous nation in the world. Its corruptions have been lopped off from time to time as they became dangerous and its virtues have been extolled around the world. The doctrine of the equality of man has been a mighty selling slogan and it has contributed hugely to the total of American accomplishments.
It has been the source of huge waves of patriotism that have swept over the heads of the American people leaving them impressed with the fact that they have been chosen to constitute an example to the rest of the civilized world. The emulation of a score of other countries has added to the sum total of pride in democratic government.
Foreigners, with the advantage of perspectives, occasional see reason for doubt in the functioning of the American governmental system. On occasions such as the recent furore in the congressional body caused by the desire of lawmakers of one party to embarrass
the other party, the stay-at-home American also sees room for doubt. His faith in the efficacy of his government to function under pressure is shaken. Is it true democracy or is it some abortion of democratic principles?
Is a struggle for control which seeks to enrich both
factions of the political structure the true expression of the ideals which were fought for by the nation's founders? Is it not time to seek the philosophy of the adage that unity produces the best results? Do the nation's lawmakers, who place party politics above the needs of the nation, represent the best that a system
of democracy and equality can produce?
Democracy may be in the process of becoming unwieldy. The doctrine of equality which has made popular acclaim the basis for power may be defeating the end for which it was designed. The fun which is poked at the men who hold the fate of the nation at their command may be more than mere American humor. It may be something serious. Citizens pause and wonder when congress imitates a crowd of unruly children with a common spite at the teacher.

Democratic Revival

The renaissance of the Democratic party as a militant
political organization was celebrated the night of June 10 by approximately 200 Democratic leaders. A banquet given by the Jefferson Association of the District of Columbia was in honor of J. M. Shouse, chief of the new party headquarters in Washington, which will operate day and night for the next four years to enable the Jeffersonians to present a solid front to the next enslaught of the Republican party.
John J. Raskob, national chairman of the Democratic organization, declared the funeral notices which the Republican press has given out concerning the demise of his party are utterly false. Raskob also called attention to the fact that instead of shame over the defeat of the party in the last election there should be nothing
but wonder that so much was accomplished with so little organization. The keynote of the entire Washington conclave, which was attended by a sufficient number of southern leaders to warrant a feeling of unity, was that the Democratic mule was not dead, but merely sleeping. It will be the purpose of the new party organization to provide the prod which will insure the legendary beast of burden a good position at the political manger in the next election.
The principles of freedom and liberty which the founders of the Democratic party embraced are still forces potent enough to become important considerations in the belief of faithful Democratic leaders.
As long as the structure of American government must rest upon the pillars of the Republican party, it is cheering to see the Democrats hard at work strengthening their part of the supporting framework. It has seemed at times that the whole structure was a bit wobbly.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 15.—The relations of the press to public officers is becoming more and more a matter of concern to the leaders of public life and to journalists. The recent publication of a senate roll call,
supposed to have been entirely secret, has brought forward prominently the importance of arrival at a mutual understanding. It is possible the rules of the senate
may be materially revised as the result of this episode.
That is but a passing matter but it has come up several times before. Transactions of secret sessions of the senate have resulted in the imprisonment of news paper correspondents and, in one case, nearly resulted in the expulsion of a United States senator, Senator Tappan of Ohio. It is possible that no more secret executive sessions will be held but that executive as well
as legislative sessions shall be held publicly.
Of equally if not more pressing moment is the concern over methods of reporting court trials and to this subject the American Bar association has been giving no little attention. The subject has been studied by a special body, the committee on cooperation of the press and the bar. Also, journalists and publishers have been invited to sit in at the purely professional sessions of sections of the bar association in an effort to work out
some satisfactory code, some modus operandi which will prove mutually acceptable.
The problem is one showing many angles. The newspapers are ever eager to print every detail concerning important trials. This eagerness is the creation of a public avid for news, often, it is recognized by both press
and bar, morbidly avid—as in such cases as murder
trials and divorce cases.
Against this prying for news are ranged lawyers and judges. That is to say, there is such a general division.
This attitude is prompted by the fact that the judge believes that public opinion and jury opinion would be influenced by premature publications during the course
of a trial and the course of justice thereby prejudiced.
Further, for tactical reasons, both prosecuting and defending counsel often, indeed usually, desire to keep
plans secret until the proper time arrives to make use of evidence or line of argument.
This, studies of the Bar association show, is not an absolutely universal attitude on the part of judges and lawyers. Bar association reports have not hesitated to deplore the fact that there are many publicity-seeking judges who are not displeased with the sensationalism surrounding the proceedings in their courts. While, in general, an individual lawyer would not make such a statement in open court to any specific judge, the broadly impersonal reports of the various bar associations
makes it possible to express a blanket opinion.
Many lawyers take cases for small or no fees merely because sensational aspects of such cases insure advertising which is free on the one hand and, being in the form of news, does not violate professional ethics on the other.
In general these are the aspects of the problem before the legal profession and the newspaper profession today. It simmers down to a three-cornered situation which has conflicting elements. Newspapers want detailed news, judges and juries want secrecy in most cases, but in others individual judges and lawyers desire to use the newspapers for self advertisement. One of the reasons, in fact the principal reason, why the Bar association and leading publishers are concerned
over the matter is the danger that amid all this bickering the ends of justice may be largely overlooked and the interests of plaintiff or defendant lost in the scuffle.

Questions And Answers

By Frederic J. Haskin.

The answers to questions printed here each day are specimens picked from the mass of inquiries handled
by our great Information Bureau maintained in Washington, D. C. This valuable service is for the free use of the public. Ask any question of fact you may want to know and you will get an immediate reply. Write plainly, enclose two cents in coin or stamps for return
postage, and address the East Liverpool Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. How many stations broadcast the Universal Safety
Series? H. H. N.
A. Thirty-four radio stations participate in this safety education program.

Q. How often does President Hoover hold public audiences? L. G.
A. He holds them on Wednesdays only, at 12:30 o'clock.

Q. Can a person who is not an American citizen join the Army? W. G.
A. One must be an American citizen before joining any division of the United States army.

Q. How many people are born each day and how many die? A. P.
A. It is estimated that in the world the births average 150,000 a day and the deaths 100,000.

Q. How does an American get a patent in England?
E. E. M.
A. The British patent office will not conduct business
directly with an applicant living in the United States,
but conducts its business through a duly authorized agent in England. Applications for foreign patents are prepared here by United States practitioners and their agents abroad attend to the business there. All communications relative to an application are between the British office and the agent abroad.

Q. When is the Rose tournament held in Pasadena?
F. S.
A. It is held on January 1. This mammoth display is months in preparation. Last year there were more than 300 entries.

Q. What qualifications are required of horses entering the Kentucky Derby? Can horses be entered before birth? O. R. H.
A. Entries for the Kentucky Derby usually close the last of February. Any three-year-old thoroughbred is eligible. There are some stakes where a mare is entered before birth of the foal but that is not true of the Kentucky Derby.

Q. Is Babe Ruth more of an asset to his team as a batter than he was as a pitcher? G. S.
A. He was a very good pitcher and is an excellent batter. As a batter he can play every day, which is an advantage to his team.

Q. Is there a colored man in congress? H. R.
A. There is a colored representative in congress,
Oscar De Priest of Illinois. He represents the district
formerly represented by Martin B. Madden of Chicago.

The East Liverpool Review
Has a Booklet on Sun Suits

Sun suits are the cute little costumes in which the youngsters play outdoors in summer. The ultraviolet rays of the sun are nature's health and strength
builders. The simple little sun suits give the child
the maximum benefit of summer playtime.
Methods of making these, and materials, are described in a neat illustrated leaflet prepared by experts of the government Bureau of Home Economics.
The suits are very economical and easy to make.

Ritzy Rosalie

Since the weather became real
'summerish' Rosalie has spent more time on the beach than anywhere else, and she has acquired quite a variety of beach togs. Here she is wearing a new hile swimming suit,
using the same material as the popular pull-on sweaters, and woven of dark blue and silver, in a mildly modernistic pattern. At the same time she purchased this suit Rosalie also bought a formal calico garden dress
which has all the exotic, brilliant coloring of the orient. It is a dress which all women cannot wear, but if you can wear it successfully it is a very striking garment. It is worn over the swimming suit when the surroundings
make it desirable to dress up a bit.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, June 15.—The old
badger game still flourishes, but it has been shown of these obvious crudi-
ties that trapped so many of its practitioners. In the days when Herald Square was the hub of town, there were a half dozen hotels which co-operated with badger workers in their filth.
The badger game employed two operatives—a well-dressed man and woman posing as husband and wife. The woman, invariably good looking,
roamed the big hotel lobbies, and by adroitly dropping a handkerchief or bestowing a sly wink formed the initial contact which eventually angled
the victim.
He was kept dangling for a day or
so, but always got her phone number.
Finally the inevitable dinner and a few rounds of drinks. Her husband was away on a business trip. The victim allowed himself to be lured to her hotel room. More drinks, and the knock at the door!
In rushed the injured husband with a hotel servant for a witness. Threats of divorce, damage suits and scandal headlines in thick red. Of course, the compromise came with a settlement in cash. The sucker was always a married man of prominence. They saw to that.
It was seldom a victim would face exposure by squealing, and so the game became a blackmailing bonanza.
For a time a special police squad was pitted against the badger workers.
Two millions were paid them in hush
money in one year. Four new famous
New Yorkers were badger victims in the early nineties.
But so many were caught in the net, all began to squeal. They found that only by squeaking could they avoid extortion that would often last for a lifetime. Thus the game became dangerous. Sing Sing at one time housed 100 badger workers behind its bleak walls.
The modern badger game has polish. Its operatives are cultured confession fallen on lean days. No hotel rooms and knocks. Just a husband catching a wife in a drawing room flirtation. Then he drops around to the victim's office with a sudden hard luck tale. He needs money and gets it.
Add zeroes in entertainment: New York has a number of amateur snake

hunters who scour the Ramapo Hills
for the many varieties of snake found there. All carry their individual kits of serum as antidotes for bites. As Skippy says, "It's disgusting."
"I suppose you have noticed," writes
a warm friend, "I have resigned my executive job to devote my time to private interests. Well, as usual, that means I have been canned."
The famous statues, including one of William Shakespeare, which so long gave a museum effect to the facade of the home of the late and talented Amelia Bingham, have been removed. The mansion of the actress was sold after her passing.

Since the Winter Garden went cinema, the Broadway stroller misses the distinct chorus girl type so typical of the playhouse. They antedated the modern Dumb Deras. Wilson Mizner
used to tell a thousand gay stories
about them, including the one now
current of the girl who thought an operetta was a lady who worked at a telephone switchboard.

There is talk of reviving a theatre
after the manner of the old Olympic which flourished on Broadway near Howard street 50 years ago. The Olympic marked the spectacular rise
of Mary Taylor, known as "Our Mary" and one of the most popular actresses the town ever knew. For a decade she was the darling of the footlights. She flirted with all, but only the privileged few were permitted to escort her to dinner. The Olympic featured opera, burlesque and straight drama, and Mary starred in each form. Under the direction of Burnum, she danced the first polka
and it created such scandalous talk ladies came veiled. She was the first actress with sufficient charm to cause
a rise in the price of box seats from 35 to 50 cents. The new venture is to exploit three famous stars.

"You never go out strolling," writes
a lady from Baton Rouge, "without apparently running into a famous novelist, a celebrated actor or a rich
young debutante."
Which goes to show the perils of
New York streets are not exaggerated.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

Any kind of a cough is a nuisance.
It makes you a nuisance to your family and friends, too. It breaks your own rest and helps to make you more miserable than the trouble that caused
the cough in the first place.
There are many causes for this symptom. It may be a reflex from some part of the body you would never
think of as the seat of the real trouble.
For instance, it may come from the
ear. A plug of wax in the ear canal may irritate a certain nerve
that has endings in the diaphragm.
Violent coughing results.
A disturbance in the nose may produce coughing. Usually the trouble is in the throat or lungs. We expect it to be there. But there is such a thing as "stomach cough." An attack of indigestion may excite it.
You know the brain presides over the nervous system. There may be a disturbance in that organ, and one of its signs may be an obstinate cough.
There are several varieties of coughs. It may be dry and persistent.
No mucus is raised, but in spite of all efforts to control it, the aggravating thing continues.
It may be a loose, "productive"
cough. That is, the effort brings up more or less mucus. This is the way it is apt to be towards the end of a hard cold.
Some of the most stubborn and long continued coughs I have ever met have come from an elongation of the uvula. This has acted as a foreign body in the throat.
When you stand in front of a mirror, with a good light, you will observe the finger-like bit of tissue,
hanging down from the back of the throat. That is the "uvula."
If this structure is too long. It may tickle the back of the tongue. This is followed by cough and perhaps
an inclination to vomit.
Even now I have not exhausted the causes for cough. In children the presence of adenoids may have persistent cough as a symptom. If you look into the widely-opened mouth,

you will see a mass of material looking like holed starch. This is pretty good evidence, when added to mouth breathing and snoring at night, that the child has adenoids.
Enlarged tonsils may cause cough.
In young or old this condition is rather distressing.
Yet another type of cough is due to hysteria. Excessive nervousness is responsible. There may be constant clearing of the throat and occasional violent attacks of uncontrollable
coughing.
The familiar coughing due to the effects of a cold is known to everybody. It may be an early symptom or be one of the later effects.
Of course, there are more serious ailments than these that produce coughing. In tuberculosis it is a common symptom.
In the treatment, as you will see,
we must find the cause and remove that. Pills and powders, cough syrups and lozenges mean little till we have gotten at the origin of the cough.

The Laws Elaboration.
The wisdom acquired in a long life
in touch with public affairs in general and the law's processes in particular speaks again from the lips of William Howard Taft, chief justice of the United States supreme court. Not long since, he denounced the intermin-
ably long and involved briefs running into volumes and wearily discussing immaterial questions, with which courts often are burdened and cases clogged and befogged. Now, in a case wherein half a dozen lawyers sought
the supreme court's time to argue
a single case, Mr. Taft tells these lawyers and litigants as a whole that
"too many lawyers" injure rather than serve clients. One hears often and from observation may agree that generally speaking, there are too many lawyers. Certainly, in cases of public moment, the array of counsel on each side frequently had led observing laymen to the positive belief that, in these cases specifically, there are too many lawyers. Out of his wise and long retrospect, the remark of the chief justice confirms the validity of this conclusion. Its frank utterance from the back of the mind of the chief justice encourages the belief that the opinion also exists in the back of the minds of numerous judges.
Shorter briefs and fewer lawyers can reach the essentials of most lawsuits
more cheaply, more quickly and more effectively.—Terre Haute Tribune.

Once Overs

Keep Up a Good Appearance.
An occasional fleeting glance at yourself in the mirror and you realize that you are slipping in appearance.
You wear as good clothes as formerly, but somehow you don't look as crisp and trim and neat as you did.
You begin to wonder what is the cause of the change.
Perhaps you dismiss it with the
thought that you are getting old.
Certainly age may make some changes, but if the truth were known
it is not so much age creeping on but laziness.
You don't take time to manicure
your finger nails.
If they are clean you let that suffice.
Your collar does not fit you and your tie is wrinkled, perhaps, if you are a man.
Saving on your laundry bill at the expense of your appearance.
Are you losing your pride?
If you are employed outside your home and begin to look a little down
at the heel, it won't be long before
your employer will judge your work
by your grooming.
Man or woman, you cannot afford
to let yourself down in personal appearance.

This "Guess Who" contest is being sponsored by the various business houses whose advertisements appear on this page, and you will find it an interesting way of renewing old acquaintances as well as making new ones.

Each week you will find a different picture until there has been a total of 25, and under each picture are three questions to be answered by each contestant. Each picture will be numbered and in order to compete in this contest it will be necessary for you to identify each one, starting with number one and continuing up to and including number 25.

The picture will consist of various business men or business women store managers and store fronts, but each picture will be some part of one of the advertisers' business. There will be only one picture for each of the advertisers whose name appears on this page. Many of the pictures you will recognize easily; others you may be in doubt about, but all you need do to identify them is to take the picture each week to any of the business places whose advertisement appears here and ask any of the employees of the picture represents their place of business.

Any advertiser on the page will be glad to answer your question. Start in right away. See if you can identify the picture that appears today.

The Chevrolet Six offers all the Distinct Advantages of BODY by FISHER

STYLE

The new Fisher bodies on the Chevrolet Six are unusually smart and attractive. Concave front pillars lengthen the profile—the effect of the side paneling extends well up over the roof line—and all rear quarters are artistically molded.

COMFORT

In comfort, too, these new Fisher bodies represent a marked advance. The seats are deeply cushioned. Upholstery is "built-up" for added luxuriousness. And the driver's seat is easily adjustable, forward and back.

STRENGTH

Another outstanding feature of these new Fisher bodies is their sturdy construction. Built of selected hardwood and steel, they provide a measure of strength, endurance and safety that is unapproached in any other low-priced car.

QUIETNESS

As a result of their composite wood and steel construction, Chevrolet's new Fisher bodies are exceptionally quiet. The roof is padded to prevent rumble. And wherever wood and metal contact, a layer of insulation prevents noise.

APPOINTMENTS

All hardware fittings on Chevrolet enclosed bodies are designed and built by Ternstedt. Door handles are of the remote control type—window lifts are smart and convenient—and all exterior bright metal parts are chromium-plated.

FINISH

No single feature of Chevrolet bodies has created more widespread comment than their beautiful finish—made possible by the superlatively smooth surface of the steel body panels. Applied against this silken surface, Chevrolet finishes are uniform, lustrous and permanent.

Bar Chief Speaks

ing business either by advertisement, "on the golf links," in the church or by any other means. He also attacked corporations which practiced law for the benefit of their patrons.

"Much has already been said about the difficulty of obtaining a practice in an ethical manner, including the much-mooted question of whether it is less ethical to obtain law business at the time and place at which the accident happened or on the golf course," said Eldon. "There is a general complaint among lawyers that 'times are not what they used to be.' I feel, however, that a closer investigation of the situation does not merit the painting of such a dark picture. I am more inclined to feel that after an inventory of our present status we should rather sit back and say 'the good days are gone, thank God.'"

"Conditions of the profession have improved even in the memory of those present. Twenty years ago you were driving with horse and buggy to the county seat and meat at least a day's time and in great haste. Furthermore, the fees were not as large in proportion or as easy to get. "Again while we are very prone to condemn the trust companies and the abstract companies, and there is no question but what they do constitute a menace to a great deal of law business, still they create and cause a great deal of law business in that many of the legal documents they attempt to prepare mean that very shortly it will take two sets of lawyers and probably three courts to construe or revise in conformity with the law or the facts.

"Rightly or wrongly this is an age of organization. "The bar association is the answer to most of the problems that confronts the modern lawyer."

medical college at the university, was apparently in a happy mood, Miss Dillon declared.

Miss Dillon will always remember the girl as a quiet, unassuming young woman, who talked very little about herself, and whose last known action was a smile of goodbye to her.

Youths Find Body.

Police are working without a clue except perhaps for the statement of several of the "king" friends that she had been keeping company with a man about 40 years of age, who wore shell-rimmed glasses and who drove a small coupe.

The man is being sought for questioning, if not for the actual murder.

Authorities declared the girl apparently was beaten to death between 8:30 and 11:00 p. m., Thursday night.

It rained about 11 o'clock on the night of the murder, it was pointed out, and the body, according to police had been thrown there before the thunder shower. No tracks of a person or automobile were found near the body.

Two youths, who went to the rifle range for practice, found the body.

Victim Was Good Student

Questioning of classmates of the girl revealed little. They declared she had talked little about herself, was a good student, and that her time was taken up with her studies and work.

The case, police admitted, was one of the most baffling and brutal murders in the history of Columbus.

Not since the finding of the body of Mrs. C. V. Sheatsley, wife of Rev. C. V. Sheatsley in a furnace in her home has such a sensation been created in Columbus.

According to friends, the girl had appeared worried and anxious for several days, but had seemed happy when she was last seen.

Her father and mother, the former an instructor in a Florida university, have been notified of the tragedy and are reported en route here.

Stowaway Blamed for Failure.

PARIS, June 15.—With a great deal of curiosity, but no particular enthusiasm, Paris today was awaiting the arrival of Arthur Schreiber, 22-year-old Portland, Maine, youth, the first trans-Atlantic airplane stowaway in the history of aviation.

Schreiber is due to arrive at Le Bourget air field this afternoon with Jean Assolant, Rene Lefevre and Armand Lott, pilot, navigator and sponsor of the successful transoceanic flight of the monoplane "Yellow Bird," which made a forced landing at Comillas, Spain, last night.

The report that Schreiber's presence in the plane was to some extent responsible for the failure of the plane to reach its goal, Paris, caused considerable comment here, but there is no apparent antipathy against the youth for the part he played in the flight.

Aviation experts point out that although the added weight of Schreiber's body might have caused speedier consumption of the plane's gasoline supply than otherwise, he could not possibly have exerted enough influence to force a landing a full 500 miles from the airman's goal.

Stowaway Scared

We'll never reach France alive."

"Naturally these pessimistic answers added to my panic. I was awfully glad when the trip was over, even though it meant landing in a strange country without a penny in my pockets.

"But I am not worrying, the people here have been mighty good to me."

Spain Makes Fuss Over Lad.

Schreiber has become extremely popular with the residents of Comillas the little town on the Bay of Biscay near where the "Yellow Bird" landed after fighting severe storms and adverse winds half-way across the Atlantic.

The pretty señoritas as well as older residents of the town have made a great fuss over him. He is continually surrounded by an adulating crowd asking for his autograph and shaking his hand.

Since his arrival the youth has consumed an enormous quantity of beer. The inhabitants keep pressing him to celebrate his feat with huge glasses of strong Spanish brew, and the daring stowaway rarely refuses.

60-HOUR AIR TRIP STARTED

Trans-continental Travelers Board Planes At Cleveland.

BY ALBERT L. FURTH.

I. N. S. Special Correspondent. MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, CLEVELAND, June 15.—America's trans-continental travelers took to the air today.

There was nothing adventurous about it, nothing of an experiment. Simply a group of men and women on the inaugural trip of a 60-hour service from coast to coast, boarding airplanes that will clip more than 30 hours from the railroad schedule.

Two Fokker trimotored, 12-passenger monoplanes and a Lockheed-Vega were waiting at the airport here for the party that left New York last night on the inaugural trip of the New York Central Universal Airways and Santa Fe's air-rail service from coast to coast.

The party will fly to Chicago, thence to Kansas City and to Garden City, Kansas, then to board the California Limited, arriving in Los Angeles at 9 o'clock Monday morning. The distance covered by plane is 1,983 miles.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant U. S. attorney general in charge of prohibition, has been the center of interest since the inaugural party left New York City aboard the Southwestern Limited. She is one of the guests, as Washington counsel for Aviation Corporation, of which Universal Airways is a subsidiary.

TODAY

really "stabilized credit" instead of stabilizing usury, the bears would have been still sadder.

Perhaps somebody sold out too soon or didn't "get in" soon enough.

SIR OLIVER LODGE, English scientist, says everybody not foolish who soon live to one hundred. Animals ordinarily live 10 times as long as is required for them to reach maturity. On that basis men should live to one hundred and fifty at least, and probably well if they want to.

That would complicate the population problem.

YOUNG Mr. Greenhut proposes a gigantic chain of smaller newspapers, and wishes you to know that he is no disguised power trust. He has undertaken a difficult task. Any one of a thousand local newspaper editors can tell him of many differences between a newspaper and a chain of retail shops.

AN airplane, with a new "air mail pickup," takes mail sacks from the deck of the Leviathan at sea, hurrying the mail ashore. This plan will save two days in trans-Atlantic mail delivery.

SOON planes will carry mail from shore to shore, passengers also, and save more than six days. It is hard to realize now. And in a few years it will be difficult to realize that men ever doubted it.

THREE MEN HELD IN AUTO WRECK

As an aftermath of an automobile wreck on the Cox highway near Damascus, last Sunday night, three Canton men were under arrest in Lisbon today, awaiting hearings before Probate Judge Lodge Riddle.

Peter Juzash, owner of the car which is alleged to have crashed into a sedan driven by a New Castle, Pa., motorist, was arrested at his home in Canton by Deputy Sheriffs Harroff and C. E. Donahay last night upon a liquor possession charge. Juzash then filed information charging Raymond Auguro, also of Canton, with operating a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner.

The third prisoner is Manuel Fernandez who is charged with having interfered with Constable A. C. Greenmeyer, of Damascus, following the crash. Juzash alleges that Auguro was operating his machine at the time of the crash.

NO NEW DETOURS ON COUNTY ROADS

No detours affecting Columbiana county roads were established by the state highway department during the week ending today.

Detours still exist on three arteries of travel—Route 164, the Columbiana-Lisbon road; Route 154, the Rogers-Negley road, and Route No. 170 the East Liverpool-East Palestine highway. The detour on the Columbiana-Lisbon road is given as eight miles and "good;" on the Rogers-Negley road 10 miles, also "good;" and on the East Liverpool-East Palestine road as 15 miles, five miles "fair" and 10 miles "good" except in wet weather when it is "bad."

The East Liverpool-Cleveland road, listed as Route 14, is closed between Edinburg and Deerfield, at another place north of Twinsburg and at a third place near the Cleveland corporation line.

Paris Awaits Fliers

covery when he and his companions arrived here from Comillas by automobile this morning.

Tail of Plane Fell Heavy. "I noticed that something was amiss the moment we took off from Old Orchard," Assolant declared, "but as the motor was functioning splendidly, I decided to get away if possible in spite of it."

"The tail of the plane fell unusually heavy, and I found that I had to get the motor roaring at full speed before the plane could leave the ground. The trouble mystified me considerably, but I was determined to keep on if possible."

"About 20 minutes after we had left Old Orchard beach behind us, I was amazed to see a man crawl from the tail of the plane, where he had hidden himself before the take-off."

"My first feeling was of utmost anger, and I felt like throwing him overboard into the Atlantic we were trying so hard to conquer. Words all too failed me as this totally unexpected figure loomed up in the rear of the fuselage compartment in the rear of the fuselage."

First Trip in Airplane.

"Overcoming my surprise at last, I raised my voice to be heard over the roar of the motor, and asked him what he meant by stowing away, endangering all our lives and possibly leading to the destruction of the plane."

"The stowaway told me his name, and then said:

"I don't care about my own life. I am after glory."

The stowaway added, Assolant declared, that admiration for Colonel Charles Lindbergh's flying achievements had influenced him to board the plane.

In the course of the interview, Assolant disclosed that the stowaway had caused him and his companions considerable trouble on the trip, although he was loath to go into detail on this score. While obviously displeased with the stowaway's presence on the ship, the flier tried to treat the matter as good-naturedly as possible.

"This was the first time Schreiber ever had flown in an airplane," Assolant continued. "I cannot say that he made a good passenger."

Schreiber Extremely Ill.

Lott, financial backer of the venture and wireless operator during the voyage, was more outspoken. "Schreiber was extremely ill from the start of the voyage to the finish," he told International News Service. "As Jean has said, it was the first time he had ever flown, and trans-Atlantic aviation is no way to break into flying."

"We were extremely angry when we found him aboard, but there was nothing we could do. We did not want to turn back under any consideration unless absolutely necessary. For we did not know for certain we could get away successfully again."

"So Schreiber came along with us, and was with us when we landed at Comillas."

"We will take him to Paris with us. To leave him in Spain, without a penny in his pockets and without any knowledge of the language, would be almost as bad as dumping him in the middle of the Atlantic."

Ran Into Bad Weather.

Rene Lefevre, assistant pilot of the "Yellow Bird" revealed to International News Service that the worst weather of the entire trip was encountered at 11 p. m. Thursday, the day of the hop-off.

"We ran into terrifically bad weather," Lefevre said. "We pushed the plane up to 2,000 meters, but found conditions just as bad up there as below. Rain was falling in torrents, and the sea was entirely obliterated from our vision."

"Many times we lost hope and despaired of ever reaching the coast. It was 27 hours after our departure from Old Orchard that we sighted the coast of Spain, and our joy at that moment can well be imagined."

"We cruised down the coast for a considerable time searching for a suitable landing place, and finally selected Comillas, as the level pebbly beach seemed to afford a satisfactory spot to descend without damaging the plane or endangering our lives."

This firm, on the second call, was second low with a bid of $47,640.

WELLSVILLE TIES KATIES FOR LEAD BY 6 TO 4 WIN

Veteran Permits 6 Clouts

Bill Mundy Slab Victor As Rival Nines Clash.

WITH Bill Munday, that veteran of countless baseball battles, ranging from the sandlots to the major leagues, throwing them down the alley last night at Nicholson Field, the Wellsville Nash Motors fought their way into a tie with the Katies last night by defeating Jack Orr's scrappy Potters, 6 to 4.

Bill has quite a few years on him. In comparison with a lot of these youngsters playing Inter-City league ball, but he's young at heart, the soupbone is still producing, the pins are still good and he can clout with the rest of them.

Perhaps there are others who can hit a little harder, or run a little faster, but there are none who are any smarter than the old Red Sox player.

And so, in last night's seven-inning battle, Bill let the Katies down with six bingles and got his hit in three times up.

At the same time the Motors had their batting eye and shaded Stoffel, who is one of the topnotch flingers of the circuit in the first inning. Mackall succeeded him.

George Wagner, Bill Talbott, Hap Jackson and Cliff Meek, with two blows apiece, led the assault for the Motors. Cracker Howell's timely double in the first, scoring Talbott and Dustman, and Talbott's single in the second, to chase Mundy and Wagner across were the hits that gave the winners the bulge.

Kinsey, K. T. K. catcher, who has been crashing the ball with great effectiveness in recent games, continued his batting campaign last night when he batted out two hits, a triple and a double, in three times up.

And Eddie Bayley, at short for the Katies, turned in a good day's work, handling nine chances without a slip.

Motors Get Early Lead.

The Motors lost no time going after the game. G. Wagner, first up, drew a walk, stole second and scored the first run of the game when Jackson doubled to right. Jackson moved up to third as Bayley's assist retired Desher at first. On Talbott's rap to Andy O'Brosky, Jackson was out at the plate, Talbott being safe at first. Dustman singled to right, putting Talbott on second. Both finished when Howell lashed out a two-bagger to middle.

Stoffel left the box and Mackall took his place. Canne flew out to Morris to retire the side.

The Potters counted in the first also. Coleman got a walk and Bayley followed with a double into left. Coleman crossed the plate but was called out for failure to touch third base. Bayley counted when Howell threw wide to first on Jack O'Brosky's grounder.

The Motors continued their hitting rampage against Mackall in the second. Meek, Mundy and Wagner singled in succession. On Jackson's grounder to Coleman, Meek was forced at the plate. Desher popped up to Coleman and it appeared as though Mackall was going to get out of the hole but Bill Talbott lined out a single to right and Mundy and Wagner trotted around. Jackson, however, was caught trying to steal third, Kinsey, Mautz and A. O'Brosky engineering the putout.

Katies Rally in Sixth.

The visitors gathered two runs in the sixth. A walk put Jack O'Brosky on first. Kinsey hit one on the nose for three sacks, scoring O'Brosky. Andy Cracker, one at Howell and Kinsey was trapped between third and the plate but Meek threw high during the bombardment and Kinsey slipped into the plate.

The Motors turned in their final tally in the seventh. Wagner launched the attack with a double over the right field fence. Jackson rolled one down to third. O'Brosky was hurried on the throw and the ball going low to first, hit Mackall, Wagner scoring.

The Katies rallied in the seventh to score a single counter but it fell short of tying the count. Bayley's liner was too hot for Cracker. Jack O'Brosky got a pass. On Kinsey's long sacrifice to Wagner in middle, Bayley went to third.

Then of Bill Mundy was called on a walk and both runners moved up a notch, which gave Bayley the opportunity of trotting over the plate unopposed.

Andy O'Brosky singled and Jack O'Brosky was on third. The tying run was on the sacks but it never got around. Mackall fouled one into the air and Meek hugged it.

ZAT POONCH FOR MAX

Senator Pauline Uzendun just misses William Carey's chin with the upper cut which floored Kayo Christner and which he expects will turn the same trick on Maxie Schmelling at the Milk fund bouts in New York. Good thing he didn't connect, because there wouldn't be a fight. You know, Mister Carey, is president of the Madison Square Garden outfit, staging the bouts.

TROT KING GOES INTO FANCY HOME

Peter Manning, 1:56 3/4 Lives in New Quarters.

HANOVER, Pa., June 4.—"Peter Manning, 1:56 3/4, world's champion trotter."

Those words in a dull black paint enshrined upon a plain white pine shingle, hung above the palatial quarters of Peter Manning, world's champion trotter at his Hanover Shoe farm headquarters, near here.

The same stable houses one of the greatest assemblages of race horses in Pennsylvania, New York and Maryland. The harness horse world looks to the Hanover Shoe Farms for the best of the thoroughbreds that enter into the harness race.

Peter Manning, one of the greatest harness horses of all time is still raced in exhibitions although he was electrifying the horse world with his feats back in the early 1920's. The horse is a beauty. His barrelled body, his slimy legs, suggestive of long drive and power and his fine arching neck, carried with a graceful mein, always attract the horse lover to his stalls. He is all that can be expected of a thoroughbred harness horse.

This horse as a five year old gelding raced a one-half mile in .584 seconds, a world's record at the Cleveland, Ohio, track on August 9, 1921. Then again as a six year old this horse paced by a runner set the mark that has always been his, that of 1:56 3/4 for the mile with Tommy Murphy, the veteran reinsman in the sulky at Lexington, Ky., on October fourth, 1922. Peter Manning, shares the speed mark of 1:33 1/4 for the three quarters of a mile with Lou Dillon, another great trotter.

At Cleveland, Ohio, in August 1925, Manning raced two miles in 4:10 1/5 for another world record.

As a four-year-old Peter Manning was recognized in the harness horse world as the fastest gelding when he turned in a 2:03 1/3 over the mile at Cleveland, Ohio.

Van Dusen Chicago Favorite

Rules B to 5 Choice in American Derby.

CHICAGO, June 15.—Under sunny skies on a slow track, America's leading three-year-olds awaited the bugle for the American derby at Washington park this afternoon. From a list of 143 nominations, a field of sixteen was named overnight for the contest for a purse of $50,000 in added money.

Probably ten or a dozen of the eligibles will parade to the post before a crowd expected to exceed 60,000.

Clyde Van Dusen, winner of the Kentucky derby just an onth ago, ruled an 8 to 5 favorite. But there was so much backing for the Salmon-Wilson entry of African, Dr. Freeland and Black Diamond that it appeared as if it would be an equal choice with Clyde Van Dusen at post time.

SOCCER RULES HEADS TO MEET

CLEVELAND, June 15.—The rules committee of the United States soccer football association, which is holding its 16th annual meeting here, was to meet today to consider possible revisions.

The meeting opened yesterday and a number of recommendations of the national commission were approved. The national council's report on the association's controversy with the American soccer league was approved and the delegates pledged themselves to continued opposition against the outlaw league.

A campaign to make professional soccer more popular was outlined. Committee reports revealed that the sport is gaining favor in the United States and that the association is prospering.

An application for affiliation, filed by the Eastern soccer league, was granted, provided officials of the league follow instructions of the national council.

John D's Kin Is Southpaw

Baseball Was Never Fun to Him—Only Work.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, June 15.—The old fire horse sniffs eagerly at the first wisp of smoke; the bus driver, of course, always enjoys his day off by riding over the route with his substitute.

But Ty Cobb never was addicted to custom in habit-forming quantities and so today he finds himself with nothing to do for the first time in 25 years and is glad of it.

The strain, almost intolerable at times, of carrying forward the pace that made him the greatest ball player in history simply is no more. The constant vigilance over diet and health no longer is necessary. He is Ty Cobb, gentleman of leisure now, and, although he didn't say so, I gained the impression that he really is happy for the first time since fame claimed him as its own.

"Maybe if I had been a mediocrity, I would have had a lot of fun out of the game," he said, pensively. "But baseball, to me, was just a prolonged fight—first, to get to the top, and, after that, to stay there. I was like an actor who wasn't allowed to go to the wings but had to stay out there under fire all the time. There's no fun in that; only work, terrible, nerve-racking work."

The writer saw Cobb in his hotel this morning, some hours before he was to board ship with his family for a summer's vacation in France.

Inter-City League

With two weeks remaining of the first half of the schedule and only a game and a half separating the leaders from the tail-enders, a situation which has had no equal in local baseball for many years, the batting in the last two weeks before the pennant for the initial section is hung up promises to be pretty hot.

The Katies and Wellsville, tied for the league lead at the beginning of play this week, are still tied after a two-game series, honors being even in the week's contests.

League Standing.

Clubs	W. L. Pct.
K. T. K.	5 4 .556
Wellsville	5 4 .556
Chester	4 4 .500
Laughlin	3 5 .375

Next Week's Schedule.
Monday—K. T. K. at Chester.
Tuesday—Wellsville at Homer Laughlin.

Thursday—Chester at Wellsville.
Friday—Laughlin at K. T. K.
Friday's game will probably be played at Newell on account of the condition of Columbian park.

JUNIOR LEAGUE WILL ORGANIZE

Organization of the Junior softball league will be perfected at a meeting of team managers Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A.

Registration fees of $4 will be deposited, the money to be used entirely in the purchase of trophies.

Six teams have entered to date, including Matthews Drugs, Klondyke Tigers, Columbian Squires, Pirates, Roamers and "Y." Intermediates. Two more teams are sought to make it an eight-team loop.

STOOD ALONE FIVE YEARS AGO—STANDS ALONE TODAY

"Chrysler came into a seemingly crowded motor car market and almost overnight swept its way into unprecedented acceptance as a quality product. + + Why? Because Chrysler brushed aside outworn traditions in engineering, in design, and in performance.

It brought to bear both scientific exactness and artistry. + + That is why Chrysler has taken the country by storm—why it still stands and will long stand alone."

—Advertisement Literary Digest December 6, 1924

CHRYSLER'S PLACE IN THE SUN

Prior to five years ago there were no Chrysler motor cars. In five years, Chrysler, from a standing start, has overtaken leading cars of three, four and five times its age.

The spectacle of a newcomer so swiftly becoming a leader can bring the logical mind to but one conclusion: There must be something remarkable, something altogether different and superior, in the cars that Chrysler builds.

There is a definite superiority in Chrysler cars. Hundreds of thousands of motorists the world over have learned it.

There is in Chrysler performance, a thrilling sense of endless power, a swift eagerness of life and spirit, a restful feeling of perfect balance and positive safety that cannot be experienced except in a Chrysler car. There is in Chrysler design artistic freshness and modern charm. There is in Chrysler riding qualities a smoothness, a cradled restfulness quite without counterpart.

Drive a Chrysler car today and realize, better than words could ever tell you, why Chrysler has won so glittering a place in the sun—and why Chrysler goes on and on to an ever-increasing popularity and prestige.

New Mystery Story of "Gray Phantom,"

Loveable Outlaw.

By Herman Landon

Copyright by Street and Smith Corporation.

Even in the old days that you rhapsodize about, I never felt like striking without giving the victim fair warning. Maybe it was a romantic notion, but I stuck to it. The police thought it was bravado; perhaps it was. Now, those letters that we mailed out to ten carefully hand-picked millionaires satisfied the old notion of mine, or whatever you choose to call it. Besides, the letters gave them a chance to spare themselves a lot of inconvenience. In each case there was a possibility that we wouldn't have to resort to harsh measures.

"Maybe so," said Wade uncertainly. "The Gray Phantom's name at the bottom of a letter is about as strong an argument as I know of. Just the same, I didn't quite like the idea. It might have worked, but it went against the grain. If I hadn't known you as well as I did, I would have thought that—" He looked uncomfortably across the desk.

"Out with it, old scalawag. What would you have thought?"

"That you'd gone dippy," the fat man blurted out, as if anxious to get it said.

The other chuckled faintly. "Well, perhaps you wouldn't have been so very far off. About a month ago, just after the blow fell, I don't think I was quite sane.

"When Lavery came to me with his suggestion, I thought it was good, and still think so. I felt more justified in using force after giving the ten millionaires a chance to give me voluntarily what I wanted."

Wade scowled a trifle. "A few years ago you wouldn't have needed any justification, boss. That isn't what I object to, though. What I don't like is that you didn't use any force after the letters failed. We had it all planned to crack the crib at the Atlantic Trust Company. The job was to have come off at midnight last night. The gang was ready to the last man. You had worked out all the details yourself. It was the cleverest plan you ever doped out, boss. A stroke of genius, that's what it was. It would have come off like clock-work, too. It would have been a smooth, quiet, painless job, and you would have been about a million to the good. Then, when everything was ready, you called the whole thing off, and for no reason at all. It made me mad clear through."

Wade wiped the perspiration from his florid face and glared indignantly at his companion.

The other drew a hand across his forehead. "I can't explain it, Wade. The plan you thought so brilliant was only a piece of madness. I couldn't go through with it, but I can't explain why."

"I can," grumbled the fat man. "You had too much girl on the brain. You haven't been yourself since you fell for that little—Miss Hardwick. No, boss, no use interrupting. I'm going to speak my mind this time. You called off the job that was planned for last night because Miss Hardwick doesn't approve of that sort of stuff. Pgh!" Wade made a gesture of vast disgust. "Miss Hardwick's pretty brown eyes have looked you completely, boss. And here's another thing. It's about those letters you sent out. There was two or three of them I didn't like at all, the one we sent to Craig, for instance."

The other's eyes widened questioning.

Wade sat contemplating his brightly polished shoes. "In the letter you wrote to Craig you mentioned something about Jack Frey and the old Climax Oil deal. You found the dope in the records we used to keep in the old days."

"Well, what was wrong with it? It was Lavery's idea to incorporate a hint of that kind in two or three of the letters. The quickest way to break down the resistance of a stubborn old cuss like J. Pentleton Craig is to give him a good scare, and nothing scares him so much as the discovery that he has been found out, especially if it has to do with an incident he thinks everybody has forgotten."

Wade wagged his immense head with a doubtful air. "Sounds all right when you put it that way, but some people have an ugly name for that sort of thing."

"An ugly name? What do they call it?"

The Phantom Accused

"Blackmail."

The other started, then sat very still and tense, peering fixedly into the other's face.

"Blackmail? Ridiculous! Blackmail consists in extortion by threats of exposure."

"I had no intention of exposing Craig's old crookedness. My only idea was to break through his crust, to give him a wholesome shock."

"Sure, boss. I know blackmail was farthest from your mind. Others may not see it our way, though. You asked Craig to cough up a million, and at the same time you gave him a gentle dig about Frey and the old Climax Oil affair. To ninety-nine people out of every hundred that looks like blackmail. It's the way blackmailers work."

For a time the other scarcely breathed. His eyes glowed with a dull, wavering flame.

"You are right," he muttered. "More madness! Why didn't I see it before?"

"Because you haven't been yourself lately. Your thinking machinery has been running wild. I know, because I've been watching you. Now and then I've seen a couple of devils in your eyes. I knew all you needed was a hint to make you realize how those letters would look to others. I was sure The Gray Phantom didn't want to be known as a blackmailer."

The other winced at the word. In a dazed, fitful way he drew a hand across his forehead. Then he rose, crossed over to where the fat man sat, and placed a hand on his huge shoulder.

"Thanks, Wade. You are a good friend. Now we must square this thing somehow. As far as Craig is concerned—"

"That's just it, boss," Wade interrupted. "I've been trying to lead up to that all this time. As far as Craig is concerned, it's too late. Craig is dead."

"Dead?" echoed the other in a quick, hoarse voice.

"Guess you haven't seen the afternoon papers, boss. Craig was murdered last night at his country home near Annandale, Conn. The letters you sent him were found in his pockets—and also one or two that you didn't write."

The other stood aside, staring at him uncomprehendingly.

"Craig dead—murdered? Why didn't you say so at once?"

"I tried to break it to you gently. Plenty of time to talk it over. No use getting excited, boss. The dragnet is out for you, but you're safe here. Just keep cool."

"Let me see the papers," commanded the other sharply.

In an exasperatingly leisurely way, Wade pulled a paper from his pocket. "Some headlines—eh, boss?"

The other man glanced at the glaring captions spread across the first page, then his eyes raced swiftly down the columns of text. With a fierce intensity that seemed to grip his whole being, he read the article to the end.

"Old stuff," drawled the fat man deprecatingly. "Man murdered in an inaccessible room. Not the tiniest clew as to how it was done, but every smart dick in town thinks he knows who did it. It's hot stuff, boss. The kind of dope that makes 'em sit up to the tune of a shiver a minute. Nothing for us to get excited about, though."

The paper dropped from the other's fingers. "Some of these letters were forged," he declared. "About half of them."

"Sure thing," said the fat man easily. "Simple thing to forge a typewritten letter. You didn't write the short, snappy ones that told Craig he would be bumped off if he didn't come across. Looks as if somebody else had taken a hand in the correspondence. That's why I say the whole thing is a dirty frame-up. All you've got to do, though, is keep cool and stick to your guns. You're as safe here as—"

A tap on the door interrupted him. The other man opened it, admitting a lean, towheaded and plainly nervous individual.

"There's a lady downstairs who insists on seeing you, Mr. Canard," he announced.

"A lady? You know I never see any one, Melton." He exchanged a puzzled glance with the fat man. "Did she ask for me by name?"

"She did, and she says she won't leave till she has seen you," Melton reported.
